FOR CITY EMPLOYEES

City Opposes 'Overtime' Bills

The Upland City Council by a unanimous decision has voted to send "pointed letters" to local State representatives, Governor Reagan and President Nixon urging the defeat of one national and two State bills which would provide mandatory time and a half for overtime over forty hours for all municipal employees, including police and fire personnel.

The Federal legislation which would ammend the Fair Labor Standards Act to include public employees as well as employees of private industry is already in danger of a Presidential vote on the grounds that it might be inflationary.

California State Assembly bill 819 closely paralles the Federal bill providing that "no city may require or request firemen or policemen to work regularly scheduled over-time (non-emergency) unless paid time and a half." The bill is favored to pass the Senate.

The action came after the agenda items were completed at the meeting held Sept. 4. Reading from a circular published by the League of California Cities urging opposition to the legislation, Mayor Abner B. Haldeman asked for, and received unanimous approval to send letters to Senator Coombs, Governor Reagan, and President Nixon requesting the defeat or veto of the measures.

Assembly Bill 1243, better known as the Moretti bill, caused the most concern for the Council. The bill has passed through the Ways and Means Committee recently on an 11-6 vote and is favored to pass the Assembly and Senate.

The legislation, sponsored by the California State Employees Association and other public employee groups would bring all public employees under a single collective bargaining law, giving State and local employees these rights for the first time.

Joe Woodford, a spokesman for the Upland City Employees Association said he feels the major objection to the bills by local governments is that it "strikes at the concept of home rule." The bills would take the negotiating power out of the hands of local government agencies and put it under a central State agency for all public employees. This would give the employees the same rights enjoyed for years by those who work for private industry.

When asked about the possible strike potential of the Moretti bill, Woodford said, "The bill does contain the right to strike, but in order to do so, an employee group must first pass many hurdles which would ensure positive negotiations with management."

Upland's recent labor negotiations according to Woodford "Have gone pretty smooth", but this has not always been the case in the past as Woodford said due to some major mistakes "Upland has been burned in the area of labor relations."

Anti-Vandalism Program Launched In Upland

In an effort to curb the widespread vandalism that has become an increasing problem in the Upland area, Police Chief John Wessely has announced the resumption of a vandalism education program which will be conducted in the Upland City Schools from the elementary level to High School, starting in October.

In a telephone interview with The News Wessely said, "the most effective way to combat vandalism is through education." Most offenders are not aware of the consequences of their acts of destrction and it is vitally important that they be made aware of not only the cost involved but also the resulting damage to other property that could result from careless acts." an estimated $36,000.00 was lost last year due to vandalism.

Wessely noted that vandalism is not centered in one part of the community, nor is it exclusive to a particular age group. The education program is designed to meet specific problems of the different age groups in the schools, such as discussing safety precautions on walking to and from school for the elementary children and proper automobile handling for the High School students.

The education program will not stop with the children as Wessely pointed out that parents need to be made aware that the citrus groves, a particularly bad area for vandalism and trespassing, are not open areas but "are private property and should be respected as such."

When asked how many police calls involve juveniles in the area, Wessely could not give an estimate, however a reading of the police log for a five day period from Sept. 1 through 5 revealed eighteen specific instances of juvenile activity requiring police action. One third of the calls were for very minor disturbances, but nine other cases involved suspected theft, damage to automobiles and an alledged forcible rape.

Another program that could aid in the fight against vandalism is the placing of a probation officer in the detective department of the police station. Juvenile offenders are counseled by the experienced officer and future problems are hopefully averted.

Upland Rejects County Helicopter Service

By E. SCOTT WOOD
Of The News Staff

Citizens of Upland will be annoyed by the whirring blades of the San Bernardino County Sherriff's Department Helicopter Patrol.

However, it could make Upland a prime burglary target as this city will be the only one in San Bernardino County that will not be protected by the Helicopter surveillance.

In an announcement released by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors office, the new Helicopter Patrol was explained.

The four helicopters that will be purchased by the County with the help of Federal and State aid "will be made available to provide full-time protection in the mountains and desert."

Friday the news release also noted "that under a contractual agreement, service in the valley area will not be limited to the unincorporated areas, but will also be provided to participating municipalities which include all of the cities except Upland."

The contractual agreement combines the bulk of the cost of operation to be handled by a $688,605 Federal grant sought through the California Council on Criminal Justice under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. The State will provide $35,833 and the County will add $61,000. The remaining $53,700 was to be shared by the 10 participating cities in proportion to their size population, and crime rate. Upland's share would have been $9,000 a year.

County Public Information Officer, Baxter Willaims said Upland's refusal was the result of a City Council action, however a check of City records revealed no mention of any action taken on the matter in any minutes of the Council.

What was turned up in City Hall was a letter addressed to all the Mayors of Valley Cities in San Bernardino County by Harold Hayes, mayor of Montclair dated April 10, 1973. In it the mayor expressed his disfavor with the proposal:

"It occurs to me that a helicopter patrol program should be totally financed by county revenues. Incorporated cities pay a portion of their county property taxes to finance Sheriff Department activities; yet there are very few occasions for the local agencies to call upon the Sheriff's Department for law enforcement assistance. For this reason, it appears to me that the property taxes paid by city residents more than offset the expenditures for services rendered by the Sheriff's Department....It is my feeling that the cities of San Bernardino County should receive the benefits of the proposed helicopter patrol, but we should not be obligated to pay an additional amount for that service."

Mayor Haldeman's initials acknowledges receipt of the letter but no one in City Hall was available to comment on how Upland rejected the plan.

In an interview with Montclair's Police Chief Raymond Mc Lane, it was noted that Montclair is now participating in the program.

The program has five major objectives: crime reduction, criminal apprehension, prevention of juvenile delinquency, control of disorder, and increased officer security.

One of the more unique aspects of the program, however, will be the use of reflective disks which will be visible on rooftops around the clock notifying deputies in the Sheriff's helicopter that residents are on vacation or away at work during certain hours and that persons on the property should be observed with care as possible suspects.

Nationally, areas implementing helicopter patrol have turned an average crime rate increase of 14.6 percent into a decrease of 11.25 percent.

In addition, helicopters in San Bernardino County have proved extremely effective in search and rescue operations, for capture of institutional escapees, and for the early detection of both forest and structural fires.

Police Chief Mc Lane added that Montclair's cost of participation is $5,000 annually with only 10 percent or $500.00 required to be paid in cash, the balance being contributed in services toward the helicopter operation.

City Hall Renderings Revealed Here

Artistic renderings of the proposed City Hall complex planned for the corner of Arrow Highway and Euclid Ave. were recently shown to the press by Upland City Manager, Elwin Alder.

The estimated $3/4 million City Hall building will under go construction approximately Nov. 1. Bids for the project will be called on Sept. 13 and 20. The awarding of the bids will be Oct. 1.

After the bids have been opened the architect and City Planning Staff will study the proposals and make recommendations. The City Council will then award the contract.

Alder said construction is tentatively scheduled for completion July 10, 1974 and would be ready for occupancy in July or August.

Free, Reduced Meal Program Announced

Free and reduced-priced meals will again be available this year for needy school children under the national school lunch program, according to the Upland School District.

Eligibility is determined by family size and family income. As an example, children from a family of four with a gross monthly income of $443 would be eligible for free meals. And children from a family of four with a gross monthly income of $444 to $532 would be eligible for reduced priced meals.

In addition, families not meeting eligibility criteria but with other unusual expenses such as high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of the child, or disaster and casualty losses are urged to apply. In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced-priced meals, school officials said.

Application forms have been mailed to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office at each school.

School officials said the confidential applications will be reviewed by the school nurse and her staff. Parents dissatisfied with the ruling may make a request to the principal for a hearing to appeal the decision.

County To File Lawsuit

A lawsuit asking for millions of dollars to help mountain and valley area residents offset the cost of required sewers will be filed against the state, the county board of supervisors agreed Tuesday.

The sewers have been ordered by the state Water Quality Control Board in a number of San Bernardino County communities.

The supervisors' action came Tuesday on the urging of Redlands area Supervisor Dennis Hansberger who cited rising interests rates as hurting the property owners.

The action came when the supervisors refused to continue plans for sewers in the Lake Gregory area on 1,500 properties because financing costs have now hit 12.2 percent and the average installation cost per property owner has now risen to $2,219 from $1,651.

Hansberger admitted that the state may have the right to make the property owners pay, but the county should exert any pressure possible to convince the state to help offset the cost.

About 100,000 property owners are affected by the sewer requirements in the county.

The state has ordered sewer installations in the Crestline-Lake Arrowhead area, Yucaipa-Calimesa, Grand Terrace, Big Bear, Mill Creek and Lytle Creek.

The high interest rates have been attributed to the lack of security offered to bond holders. In many cases, the assessments are higher than the value of the property being served by the sewers, the supervisors were told.

Desert area Supervisor James Mayfield said he is discussing a plan with the state department of water resources where the state would guarantee the bonds, thus bringing the interest rates down. That agreement has not been reached yet, however.

Chaffey Service Center Needs Night Workers

The Chaffey Service Center of the American Red Cross is recruiting volunteers to serve as night duty workers.

Volunteers are needed for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights to work in their own homes, using their own telephones at no cost to the volunteer. Duty hours are 4:30 p.m. to 8:30 a.m.

Volunteers provide emergency services which include verified birth announcements, death verifications, critical illness and other services that cannot be delayed until the Red Cross opens the next morning. The emergency service is for families of men and women in the armed forces.

Those interested in further information are asked to contact the Ontario Red Cross office at 986-6651.

Bike License Fee May Go Up In City

The City Council of Upland will consider raising the fee for bicycle licensing from $.25 for licensing a bicycle barely covers the amount levied by the State, which is $.20, and will not pay the City's administrative costs and the cost of the license itself.

Uplanders Compete

Upland residents will compete for top prizes in the Home Arts division of the 46th Los Angeles County Fair, Sept. 14 through 30. Among some 1300 entrants in this division of the 17-day exposition are Uplanders Dawn Smith, 267 Verdugo Way; Jeanne Miller, 1241 Woodbury Ct.; Charlotte Peek, 511 E. 9th St.; and Kathrynne Wirth, 1854 N. 1st Ave.

In addition to the Home Arts exhibit, various displays, competitions, and activities are all scheduled for fair enthusiasts. Featured nightly is a free grandstand show, spotlighting the Polack Brothers Circus Sept. 14 through 26, and a championship rodeo sponsored by the Rodeo Cowboys Association Sept. 27 through 30.

Library Gets 'New Look'

The Upland Library has a "new look" for the fall season, according to chief librarian Charles Kaufman.

Topping the list of "new items" are staff members Catalina Martinez and Chay Adix, in circulation; Patricia Peterson in Technical Services; and Karen Basica in the Reference department.

Kaufman notes that Miss Adix and Basica are not actually new to the Library since they both came to the Library originally as student aides.

Reorganization of Library services has been completed over the summer with "only a few signs needed to guide new readers," said Kaufman.

The Reference Section, no longer squeezed into its old corner has been moved to the spacious area of the Lower Level near the elevator and the Multi-purpose Room. Dictionaries, maps, atlases, college catalogs, and phone directories are all nearby.

The Card Catalog has been moved closer to the Reference Desk, and the Readers Guide is now near the Catalog.

Kaufman also notes, "the new 3M film on the South windows has helped to keep the heat and glare from us all this summer."

THE NEWS--BRIEFLY

Members will do ballet, jazz and tap dance numbers. Specialty numbers will include "Music Box Ballet," "Ballet of the Precious Gems" and excerpts from famous ballets.

L. A. County Fair runs at Pomona Sept. 14 through 30.

City Police In County 'Quick Draw' Program

The Upland Police Department is participating with the San Bernardino County Probation Department in a federally funded project entitled "Project Quick Draw," it was announced today.

The program calls for the placement of an experienced probation officer in the police department to assist in the counseling and referring of juvenile offenders.

The probation officer will be charged specifically with identification of psychological characteristics within youths arrested which could require treatment. He will also review all applications for petition in an attempt to divert from the court processes all jeveniles who can be handled in the community.

The probation officer will maintain an office in the Police Department detective bureau where he can assist with both police referrals and walk-in minors and their families.

Under the present system, arrested youths are basically treated in two ways. Minors with minimal offenses, first time arrests, and a good attitude on the part of the child and parents, are customarily handled informally. Minors with more than one arrest, with serious offenses, or with a less than receptive attitude, are formally referred to the Probation Department for consideration of the filing of a petition.

Many problems have been charged to the present system. Among them police officers, overburdened with other duties have not had enough time to screen appropriate minors who might have otherwise been handled informally. Also, the police bulletin notes, the officers may lack sufficient training to identify psychological clues which could indicate a need for counseling.

It has been noted that minors not provided intervention at an early stage usually progress to more frequent or severe delinquent behavior as witnessed by the high recidivism rate for youths arrested within San Bernardino County.

It is hoped the placing of the probation officer in the Police Department for counseling of all juvenile offenders will aid in the reduction of juvenile crime.

Fall Flea Market Set, Oct.7

Garage sale freaks, nostalgia buffs and general bargain hunters are getting ready for the Fall Flea Market Conducted by the Upland Chamber of Commerce.

First plans for the "bargain bonanza" to be held Sunday between Campus and Grove Aves. were announced today.

The Flea Market is a flea bonanza" to be held Sunday Oct. 7 at Upland Mamorial Park located on Foothill between Campus and Grove Avenues were announced today.

The Flea Market is a fund raiser for clubs and community groups, as well as the Chamber of Commerce. The funds the Chamber receives, go towards the community programs and projects they are working on. Buyers go home happy so everybody profits.

More than 5,000 people attend the Spring Flea Market held last March, and Chamber members are looking forward to at least that many again this fall.

Invitations to prospective sellers have gone out already, but the Chamber has 50 spaces reserved for new groups. The spaces are 8 feet by 10 feet and cost $5.00 each. Buyers will be charged 25 cents admission.

Further information is available from the Upland Chamber of Commerce, 886 W. Foothill Blvd. Upland, telephone 982-8816.

Champagne Hour Set By Women's Club

The Ontario-Upland Branch of the American Association of University Women will hold a champagne-coffee hour for prospective members Saturday, Sept. 15, at 10:00 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Simon Klitenic, 404 Armsley Square, Ontario, according to Mrs. Gilbert J. Arias, President.

Women graduates of accredited four year colleges and universities are invited to attend the coffee hour, the purpose of which is to acquaint prospective members with the program and activities planned by the local AAUW branch for the coming year.

An invitation to the coffee hour may be obtained by calling the membership chairman, Mrs. Bruce Wishard, at 985-5679.

'The AAUW program enables women college gradautes to continue their intellectual growth, to further the advancement of women and to exercise their abilities as educated women in working toward solutions of world and community problems,' Mrs. Wishard said.

The local branch offers a variety of study and action groups including community and international relations, global interdependence, communication issues, creative writing, book sections, bridge, gourmet section, parapsychology, fellowships and scholarships and status of women.

Assisting Mrs. Wishard on the membership committee are Mrs. Kenton McCullough, orientation chairman; Mrs. Manuel Canales, recruitment chairman; Mrs. James Alsover, Mrs. Clark Heiple, Mrs. Bernard Jurkowski, Mrs. Donald Priest, Mrs. Gregory Mayfiel, Mrs. William Urban and Mrs. Alfred Voak.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT -- One of the nine new "black and white" units of the Upland Police Department approaches speeds of 80 m.p.h. as part of a calibration test of the vehicle's speedometer. The test, administered by the local AAA, was requested by Chief Wessely for the police vehicles as careful periodic calibration is required in court evidence for speeding cases.

Mobile Home Sales Permit May Be Revoked By City

A conditional use permit allowing for the sales of mobile homes on the northwest corner of Central Ave. and Foothill Blvd. is in danger of being revoked by the City Council.

The action came at the last meeting of the Upland City Council held Sept. 4. The owners of the property, Dewey and Paul Cable, refuse to give in to the city's demands that they dedicate a 45 foot strip of land from their lot for street improvements for Central Ave. They have already agreed to dedicate 45 feet for improvements along Foothill Blvd.

Pounding his fist on a music stand used for a lecturn at the Council Chambers, Dewey Cable insisted that it was "beyond any reason" to ask them to dedicate the additional land.

The Cables argue that Central Ave. at this time does not continue to their property and dedication would be far too costly, pointing out that they started out with a 36,000 square foot lot, if they deed the land to the city for the improvements, they would end up with a 20,000 square foot lot. Cable said taking a 45 foot strip

Leon Grady Sellers: A Collector's Collector

By E. SCOTT WOOD

Many people are collectors. Some people collect objects that they build themselves from small models to full-scale reproductions. Leon Grady Sellers is such a builder and a collector's collector.

What he has constructed is the "Old Plantation Ranch" located on South Campus Ave. in Upland.

Leon and Mamie Sellers have been living on the "ranch" since 1945 when they moved from Montgomery County, Alabama. The seventy year old retired steel worker said the "collecting" began about 20 years ago with the purchase of a 100 year old wagon from the old Boone ranch once located between Sultana and Euclid Aves. for a front yard decoration. "After that, one thing sort of led to another," said Sellers.

The items in Sellers' collection can range from junk to valuable antiques, depending on your individual viewpoint. However, each item in the colorful front yard display, every cart, plow, jug and railroad spike has its own history and Sellers is more than glad to relate it to anyone who should enquire.

"Just walk around and look. I can tell you about anything you see here."

Most of the items come from the midwest and south, particularly Georgia, Missiouri and Sellers' home county, Montgomery, Alabama where his relatives still live on part of the plantation that has been in the family for over one hundred years.

Centered in the collection of antiques on Sellers' front yard is a large bell once used to call the workers in for the noon meal on the old family plantation. It is silent now. Other memories from the farm are constructed by Sellers if he can't find the originals. Two ox yokes placed in front of the driveway are reconstructions of originals that were used by his father and grandfather. "I made that wishing well," said Sellers, pointing to the six foot high redwood well, "But I didn't have a bucket, so I made that too."

Sellers has a story to go with each item of the collection. Many items are given to the collector and one piece, a chair, is a favorite. The chair, weather-beaten and apparently held together only by dust and habit, has an honored position atop the Old Boone's ranch wagon.

"That chair was given to me by a real old fella," Sellers said. "He must have been over ninety and I asked him for a souvenir of his place when I was back in Alabama a few years ago. He said, 'Sure, look around!' When I chose this chair, he said it was his old fishing chair -- but I could have it. I bet he caught a lot of fish on that -- He was old."

Sellers doesn't seem to have any preference for items he collects. There are literally hundreds of bottles and jugs from all over the country lining the gardens and driveways, a mobile of door hinges sways on the branches of a bush, cow bells tinkle in the breeze from his front porch, while their red cat moves quiety between plowshares and harnesses on the 3/4 acre ranch.

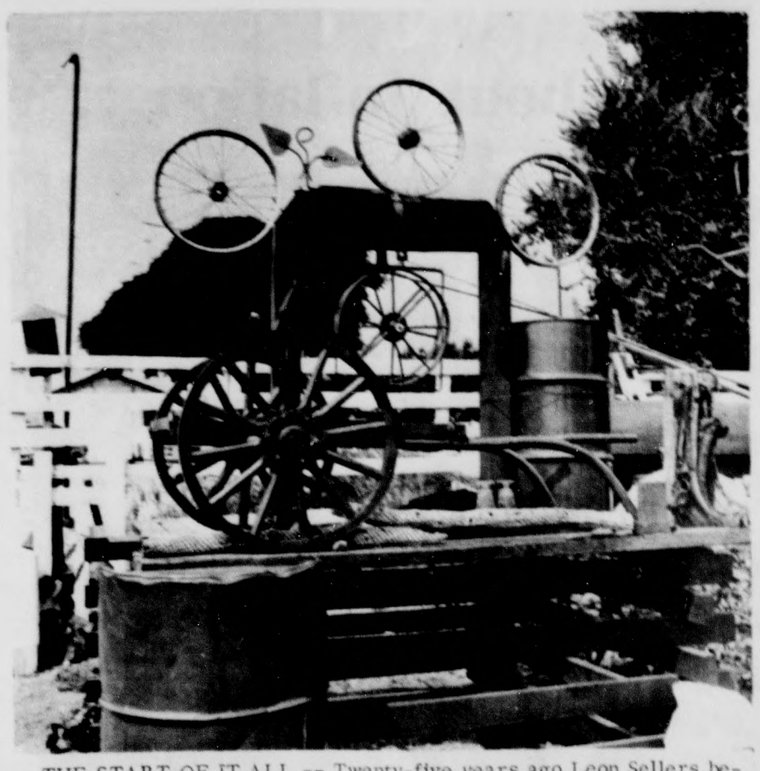

"This used to be a chicken ranch they tell me," Sellers said, "people called it the old Scroggins place. I guess he was the owner way back."

The collecting doesn't stop on the lawn. The inside of the small farm house is arrayed with books, family bibles, old photographs and portraits. One large portrait of their son who is also an Upland resident dominates the living room wall.

The curtains of the entire house are hand made by Mrs. Sellers. "These are granny squares. You knit them in squares and sew the pieces together to make the drapes." When asked how long the project took, Mamie Sellers replied, "Oh, a while, a year and a half maybe."

When asked if the collecting will continue, Sellers replied, "Oh sure! I'm always finding things. You see those bicycle wheels? I got those yesterday on 7th St. Somebody threw them away." Now the cast off bike rims are shining above an old wine cart circa 1900.

The collection has become a living thing in itself. Leon Sellers maintains it, knows each item and watches it grow.

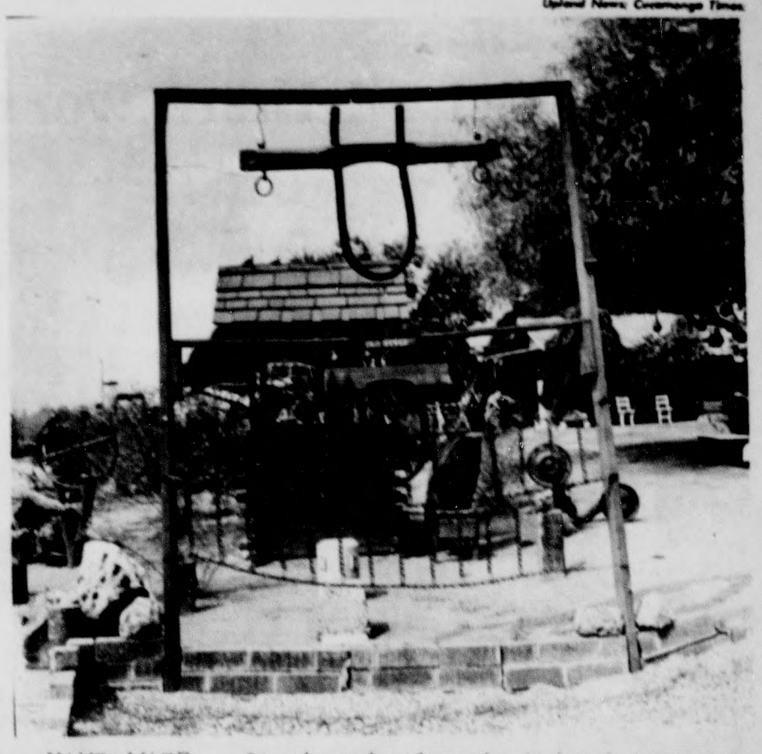

THE START OF IT ALL -- Twenty-five years ago Leon Sellers began his collection with this 100 year old wagon purchased from the Old Boone Ranch once located between Sultana and Euclid Aves. Other prize possessions include an old "fishing chair" given to Sellers by a friend "well into his nineties" on a recent trip back to Alabama, and a plow from Fontana that Sellers actually used on his "Old Plantation Ranch" in Upland.

'You Should See My Grocery Bill'

Back in May 1972, Staff Sgt. Thomas E. Hendricks of Ft. Rucker and Cucamonga, solved his second car problem by purchasing a 10-speed bicycle.

Hendricks lives in Allen Heights on the post and works at Hanchey Army Heliport where he's a Ground Control Approach shift supervisor. Since purchasing the bike he has used it exclusively to travel the daily 15-mile round trip.

"While a bicycle may appear to be slow transportation, it takes only 10 minutes longer to get to work and I make that up not having to hunt for a parking place," said Hendricks.

A second benefit also surfaced. "Bicycling provides me a physical exercise program I can stay with," he said, "and the 75 miles a week I log is a comfortable distance."

"I no longer need a special exercise period because I have combined it with my daily travel to and from Hanchey."

The first bicycle fell by the wayside this past April, after one year and 2,500 miles of service, and Hendricks has already tacked on 1,000 more miles on the replacement.

He has noticed a reduction in his gasoline bill. 'But you should see what this thing has done to my grocery bill.'

NO PARKING PROBLEM -- Parking is not really a problem for Staff Sgt. Thomas E. Hendricks of Cucamonga, a Ground Control Approach shift supervisor at Hanchey Army Heliport, Ft. Rucker, Ala. Hendricks says the convenience of parking his bicycle close to his office makes up for the extra time it takes to get there. He's been riding a bicycle to and from work since May 1972.

Permit

for the Foothill Blvd. improvement and another 45-foot strip for Central Ave. wouldn't leave him with much of a lot.

"We started out with a $60,000 or $70,000 lot and we'd end up with a $20,000 lot," he added.

Councilman Bailin noted that the Cables were the only property owners thus far required to dedicate property to the Central Ave. improvements and added that he did not see why they were required to dedicate property when no one else was required to.

City Manager Elwin Alder said the Cables were granted a conditional use permit last year to use the land for a mobile home sales lot on the condition that they dedicate the land and make street improvements for Foothill Blvd. and Central Ave.

Cable said he told the council last year when the conditional use permit was granted that he wouldn't make the improvements to the roads, costing approximately $15,000. He said the council indicated then that it would give the Cables one year to fulfill the conditions of the permit.

City Manager Alder said that if the Cables fail to fulfill the conditions set forth by the planning commission and the city council, the council could revoke the conditional use permit and ask the Cables to vacate the property.

In other action, the Council approved a plan to detour traffic from 16th St. to Foothill Blvd. during construction of a water pipeline across town on 16th St.

The original re-routing of traffic as proposed by the contractor, Ernest E. Pestana Co., was to have the local traffic detoured to 15th St. one block at a time as the work proceeded east. The plan was rejected when it was noted that 15th St. was recently resurfaced and the pavement would not support the heavy trucks.

The pipeline is being constructed as part of the San Gabriel Valley Water District project.

An offer for the city to purchase all the plants needed to landscape the new Civic Center at 10 percent below wholesale was received with mixed feelings by the Council.

Emilio Valadez, who for twenty-seven years worked for the City of Upland as parks maintenance supervisor and now maintains a nursery, made the offer saying it was "about time I did something for the city."

At first the offer was accepted with Councilman Bailin suggesting that the city "take him up on it," but City Attorney Maroney noted that any services go out for a bid.

Mr. Valadez was thanked for his offer and encouraged to put in a bid for the landscaping.

Approval was given to Matreyek Homes Inc. for a tract consisting of 11 lots located on the north side of 21st St. east of San Antonio Ave. in a R-1-B zone.

The developer had asked that an alternate tract plan be approved giving him 12 lots that would all be under the 15,000 sq. ft. requirement for R-1-B. They claimed a hardship imposed on them by a city requirement of providing an additional road through the tract.

Councilman Hawkins agreed with the developer and suggested that the lots would not be that much under the required footage even though the neighboring tracts all meet the R-1-B requirements. "I don't think anyone will recognize it driving by," he said.

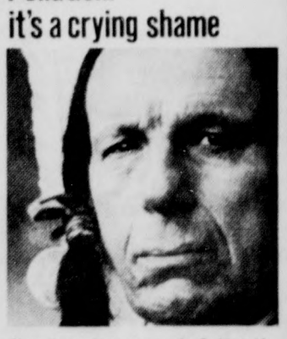

The variance was rejected and the plan for 11 lots all meeting the R-1-B requirements approved when councilmen McCarthy and Gibson stated that the city has building standards and they should be met.

In other action, the council voted to table awarding of bids for air conditioning to be installed in the recreation building located at Magnolia park until January. It was noted that in a call for bids to six different contractors only one responded.

Approval was also given for the city attorney to commence action for the proprietors of the Miller's Outpost located in Upland to show cause why their use permit should not be revoked.

It was reported the council is quite disturbed over alleged poor maintenance of the grounds and landscaping of the business site.

Pollution:
it's a crying shame

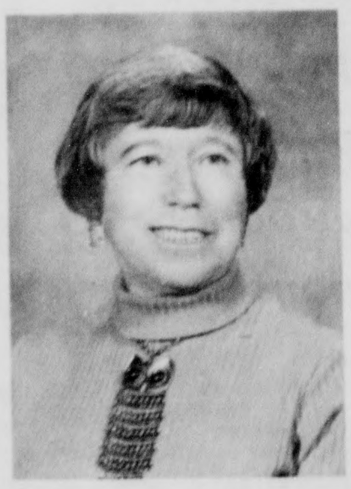

But does it have to be? Not if you do something about it. So the next time you see pollution point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution.
People can stop it.

Mr. Business Man ... Did You Know ...

The Upland Chamber of Commerce is pleased to announce that the Malibu Publishing House has been retained to develop a new directory and street guide for Upland, Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Etiwanda. This fine directory will not only tell the story of our communities, but will provide an up-to-date listing of all our area retail businesses. In this way, the homeowner will be provided with one reference source for shopping and community information.

Advertising in this directory will reach the potential buyer in 20,000 homes and will remain there for a period of 2 years to be seen and read many times. PLUS . . . when you compare the cost of an ad to the cost of just one mailing to 20,000 residents . . . you will find the prices are a bargain.

As time and space are limited and to be assured of preferred placement, a prompt call to Hilda Kirkeby at 982-8816 will be appreciated.

Knock off up to 10% on your grocery bill with Mayfresh brands!

We have about 250 different products in the Mayfresh line and, almost without exception, they cost less than nationally advertised brands.

Sometimes, Mayfresh products, even though they cost less, are actually higher in quality than nationally advertised brands!

For example, Mayfresh frozen vegetables are 100% Grade 'A'. You can't count on that kind of consistent high quality in nationally advertised brands.

You'll find high quality and low cost on every item that bears the Mayfresh brand.

Buying Mayfresh brands is only one of many ways to save on food at Mayfair. In fact, Mayfair prices are so low we are not afraid regularly to compare prices with our competitors -- and publish the results of those price comparisons in our weekly ads!

Switch to Mayfair this week. We're fighting inflation and we need all the help we can get.

Alta Loma To Form New Little League

Nominations and election of officers for the newly formed Alta Loma Little League will be held in the Alta Loma Junior High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 13.

The Alta Loma Little League is splitting from the Citrus Little League.

Parents and friends of Citrus, Vineyard and Alta Loma Little Leagues are urged to attend the meeting, since the realignment of the two existing leagues and the newly-formed loop may place families into a different league from last season.

As a general rule, those boys on a major team last year have the option of playing out their careers on the same team or may try out and play in their new league.

All other boys, whether they played last year or not, must register and play in the league in which they now reside.

Valley Prep Teams Prepare For '73 Season

Claremont, Upland and Montclair of the San Antonio League and Alta Loma and Ontario of the Hacienda League will all get their starts beginning next Friday, Sept. 21 for some and Saturday for others to launch the 1973 gridiron season.

Taking kick-offs on Friday will be Claremont against Bonita High School, La Verne at Citrus College and Upland at Glendora.

Saturday night games will see Montclair take on Alta Loma at Upland High School and Ontario facing Rancho Alamitos at Bolsa Stadium.

All games are scheduled for 8 p.m. kick-offs.

Individually, Claremont looks to be the strongest contender in the SAL line-up to repeat as the conference champs and Alta Loma should give some people fits in the Hacienda League.

Replacing Upland in second place in the SAL will be Ganesha followed by Damien and Montclair. The lower division will be Upland, Garey and Chino.

Over in the Hacienda conference, Walnut will repeat as champions, with San Dimas in second, Alta Loma, third, Bonita, fourth, followed by Royal Oak, Gladstone, Ontario and Sierra Vista.

The complete scheduling for the east valley preps are:

Montclair Slates Tourney

Dick Morris, general chairman of the Montclair Chamber of Commerce First Annual Golf Tournament, has announced that the event will be held at the Western Hills Country Club, Chino, Tee-off time for the first foursome will be 12:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 11.

The all-male event will be highlighted by a hole-in-one tournament with a Mazada car being given to the person lucky enough to sink an ace. The hole for the contest will not be released until the day of the tournament.

The price of the tournament is $15, stated Morris. The fee includes 18 holes of golf, a golf cart and a steak fry dinner. The ladies are invited to the steak fry for an extra $5, added the tournament chairman.

For further information on the tournament, contact Becki Hardi at the Chamber of Commerce, 624-1280 of 624-5155.

GOING FOR A RIDE -- Scouting the Western Hills Country Club Golf Course for their upcoming golf tournament, Dick Morris, chairman, and partners get aboard a golf cart. The tournament will be held Thursday, Oct. 11. Pictured with Morris are Montclair mayor, Harold Hayes, Montclair Chamber of Commerce manager, Tom Watson, and Chamber president, John Conley. The event is being sponsored by the Montclair Chamber of Commerce.

Gun Club Has Shoot-Out

Shooting competition recently at the Upland Gun Club found member Warren Goldston capture the high-overall award with Frank Cranmer taking the high-combo trophy.

Goldston connected 137 times for his first place, which was his second trophy of the day. In earlier action, he captured the A Class doubles title.

Cranmer, in shooting his way to victory, shot 96 bullseyes out of 100 attempts.

At 16 yards, it was Chuck Koehler winning the crown in AA Class with 50 perfect shots. Jim Kimball and Gary Stevens finished in a tie for first place for the A title, but in a shoot-off, Stevens won the trophy. both marksmen had 47 perfect shots to throw the contest into overtime.

The B class title was won by Bob Gray, while Chris Bentley won the C top award. Bentley missed picking up a second trophy when he lost in a shootoff with Bill Conrad in the junior division handicap event.

Others collecting high honors in the club shoot were Gay Files with the women's scratch title; Jim Miller, the D title; and Leslie Seelke, the junior title.

'Tap Water Is Not Good Enough. . .'Says Industry

The plain truth, faced by ecology experts and industrial trouble shooters, as well as the man in the street, is that ordinary tap water, once considered part of our natural birthright, simply is no longer good enough!

The stresses of the world population explosion and the highly sophisticated requirements of present day industrial and technological applications are so stringent and exacting that we can no longer count on Mother Earth for the quality of water necessary to meet these very increasing demands of modern science and industry . . . and industry waste products, even after treatment, serve to further reduce the quality of water in our lakes, streams and rivers.

Technical advances and the pursuit of the Good Life, like everything else, have their price. The prodigious amount of research and development needed to turn ordinary tap water into a crystal-clear, pure product, has created an entirely new industry -- that of scientifically purifying water.

Water purification has come a long way since the days when Moses cast a sapling into the bitter waters of Marah and produced instant drinking water for the Children of Israel making their painful exodus across the desert.

Over the years, the bottled water and water conditioning industry has researched and developed highly sophisticated means of treating and reconstituting water to any desired formula or purity level as special needs arose in industry. The techniques include distillation, deionization, reverse osmosis, or electrodialysis, and are used singly or in combination, depending on the degree of purity required. The highly stringent requirements for some industrial applications call for water purified to nearly zero dissolved solids -- no minerals, no trace elements, no chemicals nor pesticides.

Why is it now necessary for water to be purer than Nature-- and municipal treatment -- now provide? People are requiring better than ordinary amenities for their daily living. When relieved of major contaminants that affect the taste, drinking water produces the most satisfying thrist-quencher known to man. But when it is intended for medical and pharmaceutical use, for example, it must pass far more stringent requirements to remove organic and bacteria contents. Kidney dialysis machines, which are keeping thousands of people alive today, require feed water that can be kept constant at a high degree of purity.

The electronics industry sets up probably the most difficult and stringent standards of all. Vast sums may be invested in a tiny component less than a pinhead in size. One micron-sized particle of dust could jam the entire circuitry system.

Even utility companies are customers of the bottled water industry. They need a tremendous supply of purified water with which to cool their high-pressure boilers. If these boilers are cooled with water containing dissolved solids, their efficiency will be quickly destroyed.

Power companies also utilize purified water to wash off the dust that collects on "hot" lines; dust and grit will "arc" them out.

Purified water is also used as a coolant for nuclear reactors; dissolved solids in the coolant water could result in the ions becoming radioactive.

There is hardly a manufacturing process which does not employ purified water in one form or another to expedite its complex techniques. And there is hardly a private citizen today, who does not enjoy the taste improvement when highly purified water is used in the production of his beer and soft drinks, and bottled water for his coffee and daily drinking water.

To quote an old saying, "We only know the worth of water when the well is dry."

the good neighbor.

FAMILY POT LUCK

For a change of pace menu item, place slices of turkey on toasted bread which has been buttered. Cover with American cheese slice and broil. Serve with canned mushroom soup which has been thinned with milk and heated.

Ice cream is not just a summer treat. Ice cream contains all the important nutrients that are in milk, but in different proportions --and is low in calories in proportion to its high food value. According to a survey published recently in the American Dairy Review, vanilla is still the favorite flavor for ice cream. Chocolate and strawberry were next in preference.

For pepper rice, toss 4 servings of cooked rice with ½ cup chopped green pepper which has been sauteed until tender in 1 tablespoon butter.

Carob Sauce For A Natural Banana Split

Carob may be a new food to you. It is used much like chocolate but contains no hydrogenated fats or highly refined sugars and does not undergo chemical processing. It is available in candy bars, an instant mix for milk, and powder and nuggets for baking, all produced without artificial preservatives, flavors or colors. The carob used in these products comes from the pod (not including the seed) of the carob tree which grows on the shores of the Mediterranean.

Carob nuggets or candy bars, melted velvety smooth with milk, are used to make a sauce to top the natural banana split below, a sure winner with teens and the rest of the family, too.

CAROB BANANA SPLITS
(Makes 6)

2 pkgs. (6 ounces each) carob baking nuggets, or 3 CaraCoa natural or mint carob candy bars (4 ounces each)
1 cup milk
1 quart vanilla ice cream
6 bananas
6 large strawberries
Toppings:
toasted sunflower seeds
flaked coconut
wheat germ topping

In top of double boiler, melt carob chips or candy bars with 1/2 cup milk, stirring constantly. When melted, add remaining 1/2 cup milk and stir until smooth and glossy. Remove from heat and allow to cool slightly.

Fill 6 banana split dishes with ice cream. Split bananas in half lengthwise and place around ice cream. Spoon warm carob sauce over top. Garnish each serving with a whole strawberry. Serve with a choice of toppings in small bowls -- toasted sunflower seeds, flaked coconut, and wheat germ topping.

Note: This recipe makes about 2 cups of carob sauce. It may be stored in refrigerator for about 2 weeks. Before using, thin with additional milk or warm by placing bowl in pan of warm water.

TOASTED SUNFLOWER SEEDS

1 pkg. hulled sunflower seeds (8 ounces)
2 tablespoons butter or oil

Saute seeds in butter or oil until golden brown, stirring frequently. Turn out onto paper towels to cool.

Note: Half of the seeds may be salted while warm and put aside to serve as an appetizer or snack.

WHEAT GERM TOPPING

1/2 cup raw wheat germ
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Mix with a fork until well blended. Serve as a topping for sundaes or baked goods.

'Chilly' New Law Insures Fresher Longer-Lasting Milk

Californian's already enjoying pure, fresh milk in increasing quantities, will be drinking the absolute freshest milk possible thanks to a change in the Agriculture Department's Dairy Service Regulations.

The change, effective Nov. 1, requires that milk be chilled below 45 degrees F from the time of processing until Mrs. Housewife places it in her shopping cart. California dairy farmers, acting under a similar law last year, installed expensive refrigeration equipment with elaborate recording thermometers on their farm holding tanks, thus chilling milk to below 45 degrees F almost from the minute it leaves the cow.

"Mrs. Housewife has to cooperate too," says Fran Roberson, CMAB home economist. "To keep milk fresh and long-lasting in the home, we recommend storing in the refrigerator at 33 degrees F to 40 degrees F. Kept this way, milk should stay fresh up to two weeks. But, after each use, don't forget to return it to the refrigerator.

If you're coo-coo about coconut, you can conduct your own "nut-cracker sweet" by preparing the Chocolate Coconut Chews about which your guests will enthuse. These choice chews won't have to be palmed off as left-overs on another day.

CHOCOLATE COCONUT CHEWS

1/4 cup soft butter of margarine
3 tablespoons and 1/4 cup brown sugar
1 cup and 2 tablespoons sifted enriched flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup (3 bars—regular size) chopped Peter Paul Almond Joy bars

Heat oven to moderate (350°F.) Cream together butter and 3 tablespoons brown sugar. Mix in 1 cup flour. Spread batter evenly into bottom of ungreased 9-inch square pan.

Bake 10 minutes. Meanwhile, mix together eggs, corn syrup, 1/4 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, vanilla and chopped Almond Joy bars.

Pour evenly over baked layer. Bake 30 minutes or until browned. Cool before cutting into bars.

Yield: 16 bars.

PEANUT CHEESE SOUFFLE

1/4 cup Fleischmann's Margarine
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-1/4 cups milk
1/2 pound shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
3/4 cup finely chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts
5 egg yolks
6 egg whites

Melt margarine in top of double boiler. Add flour and salt; blend. Add milk gradually, stirring to blend. Cook over boiling water until thick. Add shredded cheese; stir to blend. Sprinkle chopped peanuts over cheese mixture. Let stand over low heat.

While cheese melts, beat egg yolks until lemon-colored. Stir peanuts into cheese mixture. Gradually stir hot cheese mixture into egg yolks. Return to top of double boiler — not over heat.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold cheese sauce slowly into egg whites. Pour into ungreased 2-quart souffle dish. With a spatula, trace circle through mixture 1-inch from edge.

Bake in slow oven (300°-325°F.) approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes. Makes one 2-quart souffle.

A souffle, by definition, is a "puffed up" combination of sauce and eggs served as a main dish, accompaniment to the main dish, or dessert. By far most popular is the cheese souffle which takes on a new look here with the addition of chopped peanuts. The warm toasty flavor and crunchy texture of peanuts makes Peanut Cheese Souffle an intriguing new addition to any menu. And it's packed with protein from three major ingredients: Planters Cocktail Peanuts, Cheddar cheese and eggs.

The secret of a successful souffle lies in following directions carefully and serving the finished product promptly. White sauce, the basis of a souffle, should be smooth and thick, and the egg whites beaten until they are stiff but not dry. Just as soon as the ingredients are combined bake the souffle in a preheated oven; be sure it is cooked through to the center before removing. If it should be necessary to hold the souffle a few minutes before serving, leave it in the oven with the heat turned off.

NEW ARENA -- Cal Poly's new horse arena, replacing the old one torn down recently to make way for a student center, will seat approximately 1,200 people when it's completed this fall.

Horsesense

New $1 Million Stables Under At Cal Poly Construction

By Donald Ham

I remember sitting down on the old wooden bench. A warm afternoon, between classes, lunchtime.

A friendly scraunchy looking cat used to frequent the old horse arena. It especially liked bologna and cheese.

This was old Cal Poly, a remnant of the past. W.K. Kellogg owned the horse arena and the horse stables and the beautiful ranch it sat on.

In this arena I have watched horse shows, instructors shouting out directions for students to direct their horses, students and animals preparing and training for a show. Up and over the hurdles.

The old arena has been torn down since then. The stables still stand and are used. They are soon to be converted into housing for student government. The arena has cleared the way for a new student center.

To take the place of the old, majestic, Spanish built structure and the arena is a new $1 million facility, now under construction.

It will be finished in the Fall on 1973.

The new facilities have been designed to house the same number of horses and perform the same functions as the original facilities.

It will include a weanling barn, for foals after they have been weaned, stables, stalls, paddocks, fenced pasture, grandstand and showring.

The buildings will house a classroom, farrier shop (for shoeing), laboratory, a bedding storage area, expanded tool storage space and an enlarged veterinarian facility.

The stable will contain two student resident quarters where before there was only one.

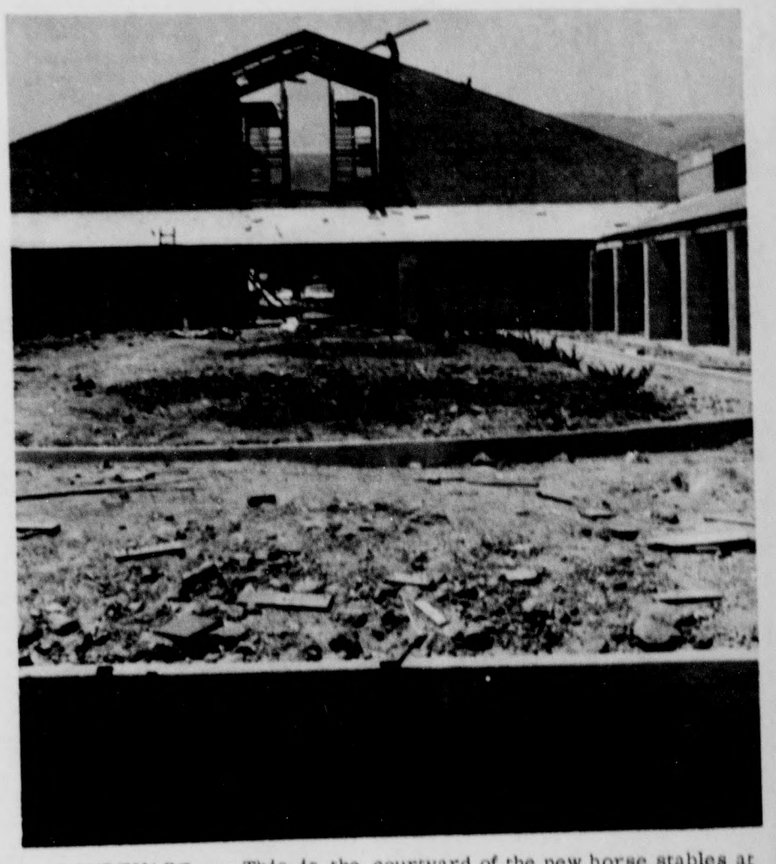

The new covered seating arena will hold approximately 1,200 persons. All the new seating will be on one side. The old arena had seating on both sides.

A new feature will be a covered, outdoor, 500 square foot display area for a variety of uses such as for small animal pens or for exhibit material.

The new buildings have been designed in the Spanish style, to blend with the historical aspect of the campus.

The new arena and stables will certainly be beautiful, and functional, and large.

But who can forget sitting on the old wooden bench on a warm summer day, between classes, lunchtime and a stray cat who loved cheese and bologna?

COURTYARD -- This is the courtyard of the new horse stables at Cal Poly, Pomona. The entire project, including arena and stables, will be finished this fall.

NEW CONSTRUCTION -- Cal Poly's new horse stables shown here and arena is costing $1 million. No public funds are being used.

STABLES -- Shown is the west wing of the central stable facilities now under construction. Buildings have been designed to carry out the Spanish style of architecture found on other Cal Poly buildings.

POINT OF VIEW

The Beat Goes On

In the evening she dances.

"See me, daddy," she says. "I'm dancing."

I nod, and smile.

As she dances her eyes flash, her smile broadens; her laughter is clear and sharp, free of drama.

"Look, daddy," she says, twirling herself around.

"Very good."

She smiles, And laughs.

I continue to watch her. I smile encouragement. I think it's a wonderful dance.

"Watch!" She leaps into the air. As she lands, her legs want to buckle, but she quickly regains her balance, planting both feet like anchors firmly on the floor.

"Good girl," I say, remembering her first dance. She performed it without musical accompaniment, moving her right foot forward, balancing it, and jerking her left foot forward in pursuit. Another wobble, a weave, and the two feet performed their dance again. It was called walking.

It was a delightful dance. Sadly I no longer remember the exact moment or even the date she performed it, meaning, I suppose, that time erases even the best of memories.

"Do you like my dance, daddy?"

"Very much."

"Should I dance some more?"

"Yes."

While she is dancing, she is not hanging on daddy's trouser leg, groping for his newspaper, probing the terrain of some cluttered closet or searching for somethng to swallow.

She's older now. Still, I think she's very young, and very fragile.

I hope she's never afraid. I'm certain she'll never be alone.

For her now, most of life is still ahead.

No, she'll never be alone. Never.

"I'm tired, daddy."

"Do you want to sit by daddy and rest?"

"No. I'm going outside and play. Bye."

"Goodbye."

The room is empty now. And quiet. Very, very quiet.

"Come to daddy, baby. Come and hang on daddy's trouser leg."

Funtime '73 Begins Here Sept. 30

Funtime '73 starts in Southern California Friday with the opening of Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona for a 17-day run through Sept. 30.

Opening at the same time on the big Los Angeles County Fair Grounds will be the 1973 Los Angeles County Fair racing meet and the famed Polack Bros. Circus.

Racing is daily except Sundays with eight Thoroughbred, two Quarterhorse and one Appaloosa events. Parimutual wagering includes three exactas. Post time is 1 p.m.

The circus, presented free each evening through Sept. 27, has 20 thrilling acts including fighting lions, trapeze and high-wire exhibitions, performing chimpanzees, elephants, horses, dogs and other animals plus the renowned Polack Bros. Clowns. Show times are 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 2 and 7:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Gates open at 9 Friday morning and major activities get underway with the opening day parade through the grounds. In honored positions will be 10 lovely candidates for the title of Los Angeles County Fair Queen, who will be announced and crowned immediately before the first performance of the circus.

At some place on the gigantic Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, there is a free entertainment attraction each day from the time the gates open at 9 a.m. until they close at 10 p.m.

Main entertainment centers are the amphitheatre and Plaza of the States where selected amateur groups from Southern California communities appear; Mexican Village where both amateur and professional entertainers from the United States and Mexico perform, and Sports Plaza where water sports are featured.

Demonstrations and entertainment also are presented in the home arts building, dairy department, schools building and horse barns.

Breed horse shows are presented free each day in the Carnation Show Ring.

Popular features continuing throughout the Fair are: Flower and Garden Show featuring a hillside of patio and landscaping ideas and a colorful Polynesian theme in the professional florists show; Interior Design Showcase, a collection of rooms stressing "Liveable Living" by noted decorators and designers; Art in Action featuring "California Crafts"; International Pavilion with commercial exhibits from most nations of the world.

Except for the horse races, a single admission price covers all entertainment and exhibit features. Grounds admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. There is no charge for children under six.

'Gunsmoke' Receives NCCJ Mass Media Award

'This Golden Land,' a segment of 'Gunsmoke', CBS-TV's long-running series, has been awarded the highest recognition by the National Conference of Christian and Jews, according to Walter N. Marks, national vice chairman, West of the NCCJ.

Marks noted the National Conference has selected the 'Gunsmoke' segment to receive its Mass Media Award based on its unusual and provocative concept of the universality of the Jewish traditions it depicted. 'This Golden Land' is a story of an Orthodox Jewish family transplanted into the West and facing the rigors of a lifestyle to which they are ill suited. The methods in which they handle conflicts through faith rather than violence is an example which can be followed by all,' he said.

Marks also emphasized that the NCCJ in presenting the award hopes to stimulate other film and television producters to deal with the resolution of conflict in a way which is humanitarian and nonviolent.

Marks formally presented the Mass Media Award on behalf of the NCCJ to John Mantley, executive producer of 'Gunsmoke' at a special luncheon held in North Hollywood.

Gallery To Present Kabuki Theater Here

The "unreal" world of Kabuki Theater comes to the real-life Peoples Gallery as giant poster reproductions of authentic Kabuki Theater Costume illustrations go on display at the Pomona Valley Mall in Pomona.

Taken from Ruth M. Shaver's book, "Kabuki Costume," which is illustrated by artists Soma Akira and Ota Gako, the showing consists of 20 giant, colorful reproductions of costumes worn in the traditional Kabuki theater.

Kabuki, composed of dance, song and histrionics, do not admit to being an offshot or a development of any other entertainment other than possible folk dances of strictly Japanese origin.

The costume need not necessairly be realistic or logical. Reasonableness is for Western or modern Japanese plays.

It is not unusual to have queer costumes, the like of which never existed anywhere at any time. For instance, the costume called yoten -- worn in historical plays by brave men, valorous brigand chiefs and notorious thieves, as well as lowly policemen -- exists only on the Kabuki stage. It was never a garb worn in real life.

In keeping with an unrealistic theme, it is no wonder that there are no female performers. Female roles are played by men -- men who have studied Kabuki since perhaps the tender age of five. And thus Kabuki is a way of life as well as a drama art form.

The actor is the pivotal force in Kabuki. Second in importance to the actor is the over-all pictorial beauty which pervades the stage, and of course the actor's costume is a primary element in composing that beauty.

Changes of costumes, materials and patterns are made for various roles, and costumes are designated in accordance with individual roles. The garments alone do not make the characterization--but also wigs and make-up fulfill extremely important functions in Kabuki.

Patterns are not inflexible. Leading actors do make changes on occasion, but in general most present - day costumes remain identified with those originated by the past masters who popularized the roles. An actor must by a great idol indeed to be able to effect a change or develop a part in a way that does not conform to classical tradition.

In presenting a selection of quality graphic reporductions to the visitors who come to shopping malls, Peoples Gallery has given particular attention to making the presentation as varied and educational as possible. Authoritative story board material appears with each poster, describing the costume.

One of the costumes shown is nishiki yoten, the most sumptuous costume which is gold brocaded in profuse designs. A heavy ropelike gold fringe along the bottom adds a furious look of strength during moments of action.

Another is the daimon which is decorated with five large family crests on the top garment and two on the undergarment. Personalities are indicated by solid colors: black for a treacherous character and yellow for a gentle one. In the one shown the costume is the color of the clear blue sky, expressing with clarity the virility and impulsiveness of youth.

America, Traditionally, At Lang Art Galleries

Traditional American paintings and unusual "color-field" paintings share the bill at Lang Art Galleries at Scripps College when the first show of the 1973-74 academic year opens Sunday, Sept. 23.

The General and Mrs. Edward Clinton Young Collection of American Painting (from 1880 - 1935) consisting of 72 paintings beginning chronologically with George Inness, the last painter of the Hudson River School, will be displayed along with a one-man exhibit of the works of Ted Kerzie.

Kerzie, Assistant Professor of Art at Scripps, specializes in "color-field paintings, consisting of countless dots in a multitude of colors. He will show two large and two medium sized acrylics on canvas as well as a number of small acrylics on paper.

There will be an Open House at Lang Galleries from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 23, primarily for new students. However, the public may attend.

The show can be seen at Lang from 1 to 5 p.m. daily through October 19.

Garden Investment: Depend On Daffodils, Bulb Flowers

Few investments in garden color hold as much reward for Californians as do the bulb flowers. Among the myriad bulbs available for planting in Fall, the Daffodil is a dependable contributor to springtime beauty throughout the Golden State.

This hardy grower blooms the first year and increases in quantity and quality, year after year, with little attention, or replanting.

More properly known as Narcissus, the Daffodil is one of the oldest cultivated flowers known to man. Native to the eastern hemisphere, it has spread to the corners of the earth. The Daffodil can be planted in many species and varieties--there are more than a dozen types or classes--which will provide weeks and weeks of beauty and enjoyment. Shopping for the various types and different flower forms is a fun and enlightening experience.

Among the various categories are Daffodils which are very early bloomers, some classified as early-blooming, others that flower in mid-season and additional ones that are late flowering. By planting some of each you can enjoy a season-long carnival of color from Daffodils.

Because of climactic variations throughout the state, the blooming periods for the different types will vary. Essentially, in Southern California, the very early season begins in February. The later bloomers are in flower in April.

Now is an excellent time to shop for Daffodil bulbs. The selections are at their best this month; your nurseryman can provide planting information.

Daffodils can be planted many ways with attractive results. The California Association of Nurserymen points out that growing the bulbs in pots offers portable beauty--for enjoyment indoors or on the porch or patio.

In the garden, plant clusters of five or seven Daffodils in front of shrubs or evergreens, in little pockets of soil, or in drifts along a garden path--or landscaped area. Mass plantings in a natural, wilds-like style, offers outstanding beauty, as well. Combine Daffodils with other spring-flowering bulbs and annual flowers, where colors will compliment the lovely Daffodil shades.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Freesias are one spring-flowering bulb that definitely likes early planting. Nurseries will have bulbs available this month in a pleasing variety of colors.
2. Feed and soak established lawns. Now is the time to prepare seedbeds for new lawns.
3. For a delightful decoration on the porch or patio, plant cactus and succulents in individual red clay pots, or Mexican pottery, and display them for up-close enjoyment.
4. For bright color and soft fragrance in the garden, plant Winter Sweet Peas now.
5. Keep summer annuals blooming by keeping them well watered and removing faded flowers.

Fall Planting: Quicker Growth

The Fall season is like a second Spring in California, when anything and everything can be planted in the garden.

Fall planting is one key to quick growth. The soil is still warm from summer's heat, so plants set out now are quick to send out new roots. They become established before winter weather arrives. In the cool, moist season, the roots continue to develop and grow. This means that, when winter once again turns to spring, the plants are ready to develop at maximum speed.

Almost everything that can be found in local nurseries can be planted in Fall. The obvious exceptions are the relatively few frost-tender items.

Top priority should be given the Fall planting of several kinds of plant materials advises the California Association of Nurserymen. When it comes to trees, for instance, planting now can mean extra feet of shade in a year's time--compared to waiting until Spring to plant.

Fall planted lawns are months ahead of spring-planted ones. Planted between mid-September and mid-October, the new lawn is established before cold weather and the carpet of green adds beauty to the home during the winter months.

Bedding plants should be set out as soon as possible, to become established before cold weather. Nurseries now offer a host of winter and spring blooming annual flowers. The cool season color is cherished by local gardeners.

Perennials should be planted in Fall-from nursery flats and larger container-grown specimens. Rewards for planting now will show up in spring and summer, when the plants unfold their floral beauty. Postponing the planting of perennials means you'll have to wait that much longer to enjoy their characteristic beauty.

All spring-flowering bulbs should be planted in the coming weeks. Freesias, Ixias, Baby Glads and Sparaxis, all should be planted early--like now. There is plenty of time for planting Daffodils, Dutch Iris, Grape Hyacinths, Crocus, Tulips and Hyacinths, but to have the best selection of colors and flower forms, shopping early is the best practice. The color opportunities are endless.

Bedding Plants For Winter Color

Favorable weather and colorful annual flowers make it possible for Californians to enjoy springtime beauty in the dead of winter. However, if you would take advantage of this cool season color opportunity, the plants must be set out soon.

One of the brightest sources of color in the winter garden comes from Calendulas. The hybrids, which are readily available, produce good-sized blooms in shades of rich gold, persimmon, orange, apricot, yellow and cream. Calendulas are sun-loving; they are excellent for accent purposes, create a stunning mass display in borders, and are among the best annuals for growing in pots or window boxes.

The various Snapdragons also offer the gardener a chance to show a creative flair. The hybrid color choices have to be termed magnificent; including handsome hues of yellow, pink, red, bronze and copper. There are dwarfs, like Floral Carpet, tall Tetras and hybrid Rockets -- as well as in-between height varieties.

Iceland Poppies are another cool season favorite. The festive colors are as noticeable as the blooms, which have a crepe-like texture that adds a delightful dimension to the garden.

Landscape Awards Scheduled

The California Landscape Contractors Association will hold it's seventeenth annual Trophy Awards banquet Saturday, Nov. 10 at the El Rancho Tropicana Hotel in Santa Rosa.

The annual competition, recognized as the most competive and demanding in the industry, will culminate in the selection of California's finest landscape professionals.

"There are 22 uward categories and we attempt to recognize every type of landscaping performed by state-licensed contractors," said CLCA president Walter A. Bray of Sacramento.

The top award being presented is the Sweepstakes Trophy representing the best landscaping effort in California. Another top award is the President's Trophy recognizing the best residential landscaping in the state.

Some of the other categories include commercial-industrial, residential, commercial living facilities, model homes, public works, renovation and unique construction.

CLCA is a nonprofit trade association dedicated to the beautification of the environment through landscaping. It is the oldest and largest organization of landscape contractors in the United States with headquarters in Newport Beach.

CLEANING TECHNIQUES

—Always launder with an enzyme detergent after any treatment in order to remove the stain remover as well as the stain.

Getting down to specifics, here's how to get rid of some of the most stubborn stains that mar your washday peace of mind:

Cosmetics. This includes lipstick smears. First use the enzyme detergent paste pretreatment mentioned above, then launder.

Coffee or tea. Soak in an oxygen bleach using the hottest water that's safe for the fabric. Then launder with enzyme detergent. If any stain remains, launder again using chlorine bleach if it's safe for the fabric.

Ink. Dampen the stain with water and rub with bar soap. Rinse, then soak in oxygen bleach using hottest water safe for fabric. Launder. If stain remains, launder again adding chlorine bleach, if it's safe for the fabric. Some permanent inks cannot be removed.

Deodorants and anti-perspirants. Apply white vinegar, then rub and rinse. If stain remains, saturate with rubbing alcohol and rinse. Soak in an oxygen bleach, then launder with enzyme detergent. If some stain remains, launder using chlorine bleach, if safe for fabric.

Mustard. Dampen stain with water and rub with bar soap. Rinse and launder with enzyme detergent using chlorine bleach, if safe for fabric. If not, soak in oxygen bleach using hottest water safe for fabric, then launder. Several treatments may be needed to completely remove the stain.

HAIR SLAVES; GO FREE!

Rid yourself of the Purgatorial agony of dryers, of the medieval shackles of metallic roller heads and the cotton candy teased tortured look. Let me emancipate you with pure scissor styling, that gives you freedom and freshness. Our lamp cuts, blower cuts, wash and wear, are for this era. Good for any age, any hair.
Also, No-Set Permanent Wave. No rollers and no pins. You may never have to set your hair again. The natural potential that every head of hair has its message to reveal to one who can hear it. I am that stylist. A little bit better than the very best!

Bright Spots In The Future Of Our Community ...The 4-H'er's Who Make It Their Home

Who is a 4-H'er? Not only the boy who raises a calf and cares for its healthy development, or the girl who cans homemade preserves and designs patchwork quilts... but also their city cousins who work at keeping parks and waterways clean. Lifestyles may differ, but the goals are basically the same. A 4-H'er is a youth who works for a better tomorrow, using the skills developed day by day in everything he does.

The whole community would like to congratulate you, 4-H'er. You're a feather in our cap. You win the admiration of all. Through your "Head... Heart ...Hands... Health" program, we have gained insight into the honest goodness of youth.
